PUBLICATIONS & SCIENTIFIC WORK

Doctoral Dissertation

- Triantafyllopoulou, A. (2004). Enterprises of Local Government Authorities (First and Second Tier) (Doctoral dissertation). Department of Political Science and Public Administration, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens.
- Abstract: The dissertation analyzes the institution of municipal and regional public enterprises as a core expression of the developmental role and the socio-cultural activities of local government. The thesis provides an in-depth analysis of the academic and legal discourse surrounding local government enterprises, focusing specifically on how local authorities utilize this institution to effectively manage socioeconomic resources, address localized community needs in the absence of state utilities, and leverage local assets to foster multi-faceted regional development and serve the public interest within public policy.

I. Monographs & Books

- Triantafyllopoulou, A. (2026). State and Citizen During the Crisis. Dioikitisi kai Koinonia (Administration and Society), Issue 14, Sakkoulas Publications, Athens-Thessaloniki (Forthcoming) (in Greek).
- Triantafyllopoulou, A. (2012). Local Government and Local Economy: Local Economy as a “Local Affair”. LAP LAMBERT Academic Publishing.
- Abstract: Analyzes the administrative of economic affairs within first-tier local authorities, focusing on challenges emerged post-2010 reform (Kallikratis Plan). It evaluates structural transformations imposed on municipal enterprises via mandatory liquidation or mergers, and features primary research providing empirical mapping of municipal economic units operating under the post-2010 regulatory regime.
- Triantafyllopoulou, A. (2010). Employment in Local Government. Athens: EETAA Publications (in Greek).
- Abstract: Presents structural transformations governing the personnel of municipalities, regional authorities, public law entities, and municipal enterprises following the 2010 reform. It analyzes how the Kallikratis Programme impacted employment relations and forced local authorities to adapt internal operating regulations with substantial impact on their fiscal budgets.

- Triantafyllopoulou, A. (2010). Employment in Local Government: The Case of the Regional Authority. Athens: EETAA Publications (in Greek).
- Abstract: Investigates the employment regime of decentralized administrative personnel following the establishment of newly formed regions as second-tier local authorities. It notes that former prefecture employees were either transferred or redeployed, causing immediate staffing imbalances, and leaving regions with the intricate task of integrating a workforce inherited overnight.
- Triantafyllopoulou, A. (2009). The Institution of Local Government Enterprises Under the Regime of Law 3463/06. Series: Administration and Economy – 40. Athens: A. N. Sakkoulas Publications (in Greek).
- Abstract: Examines the structural and administrative challenges arising from the transition of existing municipal entities into new legal forms prescribed by Law 3463/2006. It evaluates prohibitions on establishing dedicated economic units for specific competencies, direct financing risks regarding fair competition, and legal conflicts surrounding the mandatory personnel transfer.
- Triantafyllopoulou, A. (2008). Local Government Enterprises: Legal Framework and Historical Overview of Municipal Enterprises from 1833 to the Present. Athens: S.I. Zacharopoulos Publications (in Greek).
- Abstract: Delivers a detailed, sector-specific examination of local government enterprise activities from 1833 to 2008, classifying them by geographical region and legal structure, while presenting critical financial data and operational challenges.
- Triantafyllopoulou, A. (2004). Local Government Enterprises. Athens: EETAA Publications (in Greek).
- Abstract: Delivers a comprehensive presentation of the structural, administrative, and operational framework governing local government authorities, analyzing core issues related to their organization and management.
